Bio 125 words

Lisa B. Thompson is an award-winning playwright, and scholar whose works include Single Black Female, Beyond the Black Lady: Sexuality and the New African American Middle Class, The Mamalogues, The Black Feminist Guide to the Human Body, and African Stew. Along with Richard J. Reddick Thompson also co-hosts and co-produces the Black Austin Matters NPR podcast. Thompson is the Bobby and Sherri Patton Endowed Professor in African and African Diaspora Studies and currently serves as the College of Liberal Arts' Advisor to the Dean for Faculty Mentoring and Support, and the Interim Associate Dean of Graduate Education and Academic Affairs for the College of Fine Arts at the University of Texas at Austin.